When wine welcomes the cuisine in its cellar...
Haute-Serre, your M.I.C.E between vineyards and gastronomy

The Château de Haute-Serre lies a few miles from the ‘Safranières de Laburgade’ and from Lalbenque, the famous Tuber Melanosporum black capital. Witness of an epic past, the Château vineyard already existed in the Middle Ages, property of the Abbey Lagarde Dieu in Tarn-et-Garonne. In 1889, Château de Haute-Serre, was along side prestigious wines such as Château Margaux and Pommard on a gala menu.

Today, Christine and Bertrand-Gabriel Vigouroux have taken over the estate. Bertrand Gabriel, as a qualified oenologist and winemaker strives for excellence and would like to share more than just great wines but a true ‘bistronomique’ experience with a brilliant chef: Allan Duplouich.

On this historic site, thanks to a wonderful view, holding your study days, conferences, private dinners becomes a special moment, which combines work, pleasure and discovery.
